Coming Soon...

GSSM will soon offer training in a compassion program for children developed by Sue Carr, wife of GSSM founder, Russ Carr.

- Designed to be used in the U.S., Canada and Western Europe.
- 3 ½ years of experimenting with the Carr's grandchildren.

Does it work?

In our world today it is hard to find many young people concerned about others... most often it is all about self. Jesus tells us to love our neighbors, to care for those who are hurting to help the helpless and love the unloved.

So what is Kids Kare all about??

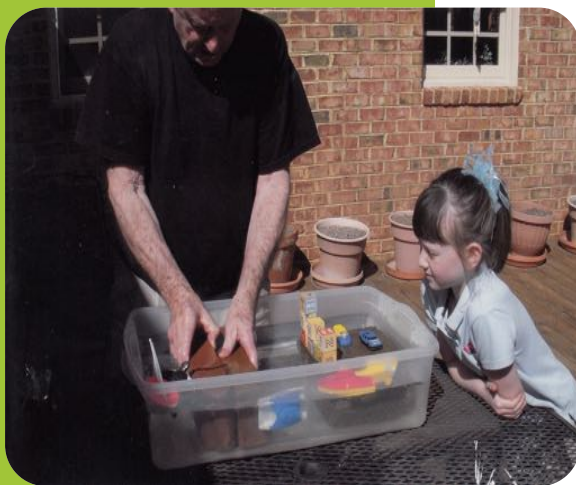

- A visit to Salvation Army to see how this wonderful organization helps the homeless and others. Take needed items (soap, personal items, clothing, etc...) to the shelter and bring cookies for the staff baked by the children.
- Visit to Senior Care facility and meet with an individual from the church or others. Bake cookies or other goodies and draw pictures for them.
- Stop by and check out the animals at the Humane Society. Take cat/dog food, "goodies" for the staff .
- Natural Disasters:

- When the horrendous Tsunami hit Japan not too long ago, Sue put together a means to demonstrate what happened when entire villages and towns were wiped out leaving thousands homeless.
- Sue asked the girls what it would be like to lose your home and all of your belongings. Images were shown from recent news clips and Sue asked what could they do to help. What comforts you when you are scared?, Sue asked. The girls both like to hold one of their special stuffed animals when they are frightened. Therefore, they concluded, they should send some stuffed animals to the Japanese children to comfort them. Sue then asked a hard question, "What stuffed animal is your favorite, the one you like the most?"

Continued...

Both eagerly shared their special animals. Then Sue said, “would you be willing to give your favorite stuffed animal to a child in Japan?” After some agonizing moments, both girls gave Sue their favorite animals to comfort some homeless Japanese children who lost everything.

These animals along with a few other items were taken to a Christian organization, Gleaning for the World, where the girls were treated royally by the Gleaning people. They took them into the warehouse where the girls placed their donations with notes in to a box bound for Japan.

There were tears of joy shed then. Saying goodbye to your favorite animal and yet wanting to help others filled their hearts.

Wouldn't it be nice to see children everywhere caring about others in need?

On behalf of

GSSM

We want to thank you for your prayers and help for our training program as we prepare dedicated students who are eager to go into the harvest fields of our needy world.

As new students apply for our next term scholarships are urgently needed to assist these deeply committed individuals. Please pray that the Lord will provide the help needed for these deserving students.
Blessings! Russ

GSSM will be announcing the start up of our Kids Kare program in the near future. Part of the delay is due to Sue's battle with cancer. She just completed her treatments and now is on the slow road to recovery. We would appreciate your prayers for her. We are all anxious to start this program....Sue being the most excited!
